The unexpected color note of a seemingly accidental—yet planned—planting heightens immeasurably your garden interest. Daffodils are by nature informal flowers and most effective for that unexpected color note. Scatter them by handfuls and plant where they fall, among shrubbery and under trees.

Our naturalizing mixture is an exceptional offer containing all kinds of Daffodils—all are beauties, hardy and of the highest quality.

DAFFODILS - NARCISSUS

In early Spring—when the land is bleak and barren—the refreshing courage of the Daffodils poking from the ground—to be often met with cold and snow—is a stimulating experience, and their later reward of prancing, bright colors leads us into a new season with renewed enthusiasm.

Plant them where they can be left alone to increase from year to year.
